

DynaFusion's Business Continuity in Current Situation

Dear Patrons,

As the Coronavirus outbreak continues to affect people and businesses worldwide, we wanted to personally reach out and share with you our commitment to leverage all resources to protect our employees, customers, stakeholders and operations during this difficult time.

We at DynaFusion are taking precautionary measure for our employees, their families and the networks wherein we work to mitigate the risk by asking employees to work from home. This may lead to delay in response and limitation on critical resources.

Effective immediately, all customer meetings will be suspended. Please use alternative communication methods for these meetings such as Telephone, Microsoft Teams, WebEx and any other such means until further notice.

While it is difficult to predict the impact of the COVID-19 situation, please rest assured that we have the people, technology, and tools to continue to serve you during this challenging time.

In case of an emergency that requires presence in person or if you have any questions, it would be ideal if you contact us via phone or email at: info@dynafusiontech.com or +91 80 41137614/15.
